THE INCREDIBLE WIZARD

With The Incredible Wizard video game cartridge, you and your partner are "Worriors" in a dungeon maze. You must evade treacherous monsters by dodging behind walls and blasting away, back-to-back, to protect each other and kill off the monsters. Some of them are invisible, but if you're alert, you can detect their position on your "radar" before they can sneak up on you.

If you can zap all the monsters, you can proceed to explore the next lower level dungeon. But first, quick--destroy the Warluk before he runs out the magic door...and earn a bonus multiplier!

When you reach the tenth level of the dungeon, you become a "Worlord"--but now there are fewer and fewer walls to protect you--until you reach the dreaded PIT at the thirteenth level, where all the walls disappear...and you're on your own!

WARNING: if you get too powerful for your level, you may attract the terrifying evil Wizard himself, who will rush out at high speed to wipe you out. If you can fire first, the entire dungeon dramatically flashes, shimmers, and trembles, as the Wizard's power wavers in what may become 1982's most talked-about video game effect outside of the SPACE FORTRESSTM explosion.

THE INCREDIBLE WIZARD comes to you from the same team that designed the famous WIZARD OF WORTM coin-op arcade game and is every bit as exciting, with the added plus that you can select your own level of difficulty to start at. THE INCREDIBLE WIZARD is unique among home video game cartridges in its challenging high-speed combat action, fantastic music and sound effects, and two-player cooperative strategy. (Single-player sessions are also fun.)

THE INCREDIBLE WIZARD is now available from Astrocade dealers nationwide, priced at $34.95 retail.

ASTROCADE'S "INCREDIBLE WIZARD" CONTEST RUNNING AT CES

CHICAGO--Astrocade is holding a special daily "Incredible Wizard" video game contest at booth 1951 at CES Sunday June 6 through Tuesday June 8. The prize of an Astrocade video game goes to the high scorer of each day. The Grand Prize winner for the first three days, to be announced 10 A.M. Wednesday, will also receive a complete library of Astrocade cartridges.

On hand to challenge all contenders will be Michael Kohler, the 15-year-old who achieved an unbeatable 6478 score at level 9 in Astrocade's Galactic Invasion game during the Winter CES. Mike has already reached a score of over 17,000 at The Incredible Wizard level 3 (the top level) and will be defending his claim as the "world's leading player of The Incredible Wizard."
